

The Sonora Pacific Group

Lizanne Wheeler and Patrick Brown have dedicated their careers to helping growers optimize their agricultural production systems. Their diverse backgrounds of education and experience enable them to apply practical and proven solutions to novel challenges in the field. Their fields of expertise include agronomy, irrigation, food safety audit preparation, water chemistry, project management, and multi-lingual training.

Among their loyal client base and professional colleagues, they are known for their ability to work effectively with field crews and management alike, providing capacity building and facilitating communication channels between upper management and the field. Whatever the challenge, Sonora Pacific applies its talents to simple solutions and team building.